Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Applicant proposes to amend the claims to include further details of the step portion on the main plate in which the step portion is formed by linear portions to differentiate the invention from the prior art since the step portion of Chien is formed by curved portions. In addition, Applicant believes the linear step portion on each main plate forming a gap between adjacent main plates when stacking one on top of another while the main plates with curved step portions will not. However, the Examiner strongly believes that the curved step portion on the main plate of Chien's propeller also forms a gap between adjacent main plates when stacking one on top of another unless it can be convincingly proved otherwise. Finally, it is agreeable that there are enough structural differences between Figure 4 of the specification of the invention and Figure 4 of Chien to distinguish the instant invention from the prior art.
